

Understanding the World

Understanding the World is one of the four specific areas of learning in the EYFS framework. We draw on the personal experiences of our children and their families, the diverse world we live in and rich quality texts to learn and develop the children's understanding of the natural world, the past and present, and people, culture and communities. Our curriculum aims to give children the vocabulary, knowledge and skills to prepare them for Science, Geography, History and R.E. in their later school life.

At the end of Reception, teachers report children's development against the Early learning Goals. For 'Understanding of the World' the three Early learning Goals are:

Past and Present: Talk about the lives of the people around them and their roles in society. Know some similarities and differences between things in the past and now, drawing on their experiences and what has been read in class. Understand the past through settings, characters and events encountered in books read in class and storytelling.

People, Culture and Communities: Describe their immediate environment using knowledge from observation, discussion, stories, non-fiction texts and maps. Know some similarities and differences between different religious and cultural communities in this country, drawing on their experiences and what has been read in class. Explain some similarities and differences between life in this country and life in other countries, drawing on knowledge from stories, non-fiction texts and when appropriate maps.

The Natural World: Explore the natural world around them, making observations and drawing pictures of animals and plants. Know some similarities and differences between the natural world around them and contrasting environments, drawing on their experiences and what has been read in class. Understand some important processes and changes in the natural world around them, including the seasons and changing states of matter.
